satin de Lyons and silk Merveilleux at Mon son & Carpenter's is the business sensation on Chapel street. It is because nowhere else can such quality goods be found at such prices. They are the cheapest black silks to be found in the city of New Haven. The store is just crowded during the busiest shopping hours, and the scene when trade is at its height at Monson & Carpenter's tells in itself of the great popularity of this old established house with the ladies of the city and neighboring places. In fact, the firm has the largest stock of silks in New Haven. The stock of these goods is superb, selected with the skill, judgment and taste for which the house has long been noted. Their enterprise is appreciated, as is seen in the throngs of fashionable ladies flocking to the store any bright morning or afternoon. In spring and summer dress goods in general and trimmings to match, parasols, passementeries beaded fringes, ornaments, etc., there is a world of everything that the ladies delight to see, and such a selection is better than a long tiresome journey after what may not Entertainments. BUNNELL'S GREAT WONDERS: G. B. Bunnell's great wonders have contin ued during the week to draw large crowds at Peck's Grand Opera House every afternoon and evening. The seven sisters, whose hair reaches the floor, the Royal Marionettes, the Empress of Magic, the Egyptian Boy Juggler, the Zulus and Whiston the humorist, are all attractions that engage the earnest attention of visitors. This afternoon and even ing will close the exhibition in this city.

TONY PASTOR. Tony Pastor and his immense company for 1881 will appear at Peck's Grand Opera House next Monday evening. This simple announcement is sufficient to secure a crowded house, yet we should say that Mr. Pastor never brought a better company to this city than this one, and this is saying a great deal. A special feature will be "Our School Girls," which is a splendid feature of fun and music. Reserved seats at Loomis'.

THE GREAT REPUBLIC. As will be seen by our advertising columns, Prof. Hager has perfected arrangements for giving his popular and unique entertainment at Peck's Grand Opera House on Friday and Saturday evenings, May 6 and 7, and a matinee on the 7th. Prof. Hager will be assisted by over 600 voices carefully selected by Prof. Jepson. Since "The Great Republic" was given in our city over ten years ago with such grand success, it has been thoroughly revised and remodeled. The presentation of this famous allegory in New Haven by over 600 of our talented youth will prove one of the great events of the season. SECOND PERFORMANCE OF "PINAPORE." The second performance of the tenth annual recital of the New Haven Conservatory of Music at the New Haven Opera House last evening was greeted by an overflowing house. COMMUNICATIONS.

to the Editor of the JOURNAL AND COURIER : Copies of this document were extensively rculated in the borough and town of East afacturers at the Australian World's Fair at Haven to influence voters to vote for annexa-

Haven city school distributions and the free. The water front will be developed, manufactories will be built, good schools and a free bridge will induce an increase of population; there will be in consequence increased demand for building lots and for rents.

Taxes would be reduced. The town tax of New Haven, including school tax, is but 7% mills on a dollar. The town tax of East Haven, excluding school tax, is 12 mills on a dollar. 2 mills on a dollar.

Think of it! Good schools, free bridges, no debt, not taxes reduced from 12 mills to less than 8 mills.

Moral! Attend the town meeting at 2 p. m. Saturisy and vote for annexation. The above document was circulated in the borough people to vote in favor of annexation. I think it will of use to print the above to let the voters know be of use to print the above to let the voters know what is expected from being annexed, and I will also be pleased to have you print my comments on the above. It is a self-confessed statement that their attempt at self-government as a borough has been a failure. It is a fine thing for them, but rather rough on the taxpayers of New Haven.

The borough bonded debt is one hundred and sixty thousand dollars. A seven and one-half mill tax amounts to eleven thousand two hundred and fifty dollars. The interest on the bonds amounts to the sum of nine thousand six hundred dollars, leaving a balance of surplus revenue of the enormous sum of sixteen hundred and fifty dollars with which to pay all the regular wants of the borough and for new school houses, bridges, etc. At a low as imste the expense of the an exution yearly will be at least fifteen to twenty th usand dollars outside of her revenue. Now in regard to the other advantages of the scheme, one of which is the large water front. The whole East Haven shore from Tombinson's bridge to for Hale, or say two miles water front, is one vast mudfat, at least one-third of a mile in width, before yeu come to the channel, and the main land, from high water inland, is mostly sait meadow and unit for selid foundation and not a fit place for any manufactory except for a nuisance that would not be allowed within the limits of the city. The whole water front is not worth taking as a grif for the purpose spoken of. I find that most great manufactories in all cities endeavor to get as near rallroad and steamboat depots as possible, and there is not one in ten of our great manufactories in this State on the seaboard which has any wharf of its own, for the reason that they have no use for them.

What New Haven wants at to centralize. We do not want any more territory now, nor for one hundred years to come. what is expected from being annexed, and I will also years to come.

There is water front enough in the Eleventh and Twelfth wards for city use for years to come. Quinnipiac river on the east, Mill river in the center and West river on the west, should be dredged and draw-bridges put in as the wants of commerce require those improvements, and has can the whole city be girdled by navigable water. Mill river could be made navigable to Whitneyville, and the others in like proportion, and thus condense the city and make property more valuable.

portion, and thus condense the city and make property more valuable.

I notice one of your contributors wants the harbor on account of pursuing criminals. Now if I recollect rightly the city of New Haven has police jurisdiction on the shore of the harbor, granted for the purpose of capturing cyster thieves, etc.

I would say, Mr. Editor, that taking on our shoulders the debt of East Haven and bringing into the market the cheap lands and low rate of taxes is a very serious blow to the Eleventh and Twelfth wards of this city. I do not think the people of these wards that have carried their property through the assessments and the hard times should be put in competition with the borough comes in at all the debts should be qualized and they pay the surplus over our debt, or say in round figures one hundred thousand dollars, and even at that fagure I should consider our bargain a poor one. In fact they have all to receive and nothing of value to return us.

nnexation-Chamber of Commerce Dinner Speeches. To the Editor of the JOURNAL AND COURIES: In the report of the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce I was glad to note the remarks of Mr Leeds. They seem to hit the case exactly and in a ine that has not of late been hit upon, viz., the an nexation of the borough to the city. Let this matter be thoroughly understood that the people of the

I believe that the sentiment expressed by His Honor ex-Mayor Lewis, "that he desired to stand on Fast Rock and view the whole valley from East Haven Heights to Edgewood Ridge; the city of New Haven, is the true ideal and that in spite of the remonstrances of a few growlers, we shall see this result within two years in case this first step of annexation is acted upon favorably next Monday; for it will be impossible to resist the inevitable, and it will not then be the simple desire of the borough, but will lay with the city to say whether they want it or not and there is no question which way it will be in the mind of a LOYAL NEW HAVENER.

East Haven, April 29, 1881. to the Editor of the JOURNAL AND COURIES: We read with feelings partly of pleasure-the other alf of sorrow-your report of the meeting of the hamber of Commerce of last Thursday evening, and he sorrow was that the venerable but eloquent Cen ter church divine said not a word at least against ar nexation. We know full well he is not in favor of inequality of representation, and we think it would not have been out of place in him to have said a few words against adding two thousand of our population to New Haven, thus further increasing the ill that now to him secons to exist, taking the litite town of Union in comperison with New Haven.
Here was a grand opportunity for him, and we are sorry he let the opportunity seaspe him, but instead he delivered a hot philippic against the "lobby."
There is one thing certain, however. Had we the Websterian brain of the Rev. Dr. Bacon, and the tongue with which he is so cloquently gifted, perhaps we would have been able to have shown our fellow townsmen how shameful it is to cred in twain, or rather part with, the splendid domain which from our forefathers we inhabited.

Another View.

I do not see now Dr. Dacon, or any mass scarring me feelings, can favor sumeration; for by a recent amendment to the constitution, any town having 8,000 population may have two Representatives. Now East Haven is a growing lively town, and will soon arrive at that point where her force in the State coun-cils will be as great as New Haven, provided annexaon does not succeed.

In that case, by common consent, one Representative would be chosen from Fair Haven, and our interst being identical with New Haven, your city would irtually recover the additional help of one vote tore, thus giving New Haven a little better voice in the legislative assembly. Therefore, so long as our constitution remains as at present, it strikes me that all who look to the interests of the two towns should vote NO.

A correspondent says that it is an errone us impression that a new school house will have to be erected by the city in Fair Haven East in case annexation passes next Monday. The fact seems to be overlooked that the city is now erecting a large school building on Ferry street, and that it will be a fine one any one can see by looking at the plan of it, which is to be seen in Peck's window on Chapel street, where it has been exposed to public view. The erection of this building it will be ready for occupation after the long summer vacation—will relieve the Woolsey, the Lloyd street and the East Grand street schools materially and afford room in street schools materially and afford room in them, they being the nearest to Fair Haven East for the children of school age in the borough. Every department attracted its throngs of fair admirers, the multitude being held in wonder and awe at the arrangement of rare and costly fabrics, and the universal verdict was, "Never before was there so great a success as Malley's

It has always been for us a source of pleasure, to cater to the requirements of an enlightened and appreciative public, and to the end that we may do so most effectually we are willing to sacrifice money, rest, time and comfort, and in the future as in the past, our whole aim shall be to place before you the choicest goods at prices that are sure to please.

MILLINERY.

It seldom happens that we are compelled to forego a description for want of words sufficiently forcible to express ourselves, but here our vocabulary fails us. No pen picture can do justice to so grand a display of Trimmed Hats and Bonnets as were on exhibition in our Millinery Parlors on Opening hundred magnificent conceptions of first-class artists, no two hats being alike. Very many of these were sold before noon. (the purch) sers kindly permitting them to remain on exhibition until Saturday). In this department we have been compelled to increase our force fourfold. The orders given on Thursday Friday and Saturday last exceeded in number any six days' business we have ever done. Ladies wishing to leave their favors with us are respectfully requested to allow us at least

FIVE DAYS time in which to complete them.

Dress Goods and Silks. Were you so fortunate as to reach this Deartment on Opening Day? You were, like my others, held spell-bound at the magnificent display of Rich Foreign Fabrics. Natrally a great deal of attention centered in the long arcade of Silks, Satins, and Rare Old-World Gems. Things of such beauty as to make one wonder if they were really rought, and were not discovered full bloom n some Eastern world. It is a pleasure to look at such goods, even to those who never hope to possess them. Yet our prices are not more high than the domestic imitations offered by other city dealers, and the excessively heavy sales of opening day satisfy us that we have no competition in this line. Carpets

It is estimated that on Opening Day at least Thirty Thousand people visited our Carpet Rooms, and all were universal in their praises of the light, arrangement and stock lisplayed. A number of people who could not await the opening of Our New Room and Great Clearing Sale nsequently were compelled to purchase lsewhere, were on Thursday made very unhappy. They found upon comparison that our prices were without one exception Ten Per Cent. lower than other dealers, and the quality and stock much above par; and the nany who had delayed purchasing until this ime kept a large corps of experienced salesmen busy the entire day showing goods and taking orders.

Suits and Cloaks. This Department has proved a Gold Mine thousands of our patrons. The most raceful garments ever introduced into New laven are here displayed. We justly pride urselves on Original Styles, Select Materials, Choice Trimmings and Moderate Prices, and the voice of the people upholds us in our statements. We offer this season every desirable style of garment made for Ladies, Misses and Children, and we challenge any establishment in New England (not to compete successfully, for that is an impossibility,) but to reach even the first round of the ladder of which we are at the top. OTHER DEPARTMENTS.

We cannot speak in detail of our other de partments as space is limited. But our displays in Gloves, Hosiery, Parasols, Gente' Furnishings, Rich and Rare Laces, Ribbons, Garnitures, Trimmings, Ladies' Underwear House Furnishing and Housekeeping Goods, Cloths, etc., is unrivaled. A few words of advice and we are finished. Compare ours with credit prices. It is well enough to say to your wife, daughter, or sister: "Oh, go to John Smith, we have an account there." Our suggestion to you is: Come and see us examine our prices and goods, get thorough ly posted and compare them with the credit

The debt of East Haven is about $180,000. The interest on this is $10,800. Annexation would pay this debt and save this interest.

Every man's property in East Haven is under a mortgage of $00 on every $1,000 he is worth, to pay the town debt. Annexation pays the debt in full for those living in the old town, and reduces it to $20 on a $1,000 for those living in the part annexed.

East Haven must now build and maintain four bridges. By annexation, New Haven takes all the bridges and the cost of their maintenance.

Forty-fave children are now sent from Fair Haven East to New Haven to school, at a cost of about $1,000. By annexation, the North, West and Fair Haven districts would be incorporated with the New Haven city echool district, and this $1,000 would be saved.
